

Exhibit II

Household Asset Evolution Timeline and Family-Entity Inventory (TY2013 through TY2024)

This exhibit consolidates the per-year Annual Personal Financial Disclosure Schedule A record of respondent's household portfolio across tax years 2014 through 2024 (19 Annual and Amendment PFDs) and pairs that timeline with an inventory of the family-entity wrappers through which the household's disclosed assets are held. It is offered as reference substrate for Counts 3 and 7 and is read alongside Exhibit K (Khanna household Schedule A export, 223 rows) and Exhibit L (TY2024 Annual PFD full-document OCR).

1. Per-filing aggregate snapshots

The table below summarizes every Annual and Amendment Personal Financial Disclosure in respondent's filing record, each re-extracted by per-page extraction against the primary House Clerk PDF. Each row aggregates all Schedule A rows in that filing by asset-name uniqueness and sums the low-band and high-band value columns.

The aggregate high-band disclosed value trajectory moves from approximately $30,000 at the 2014 candidate filing (representing the pre-marital stage of the filer's own holdings) to an Annual-filing peak of approximately $686 million at the TY2024 Original PFD. The large step-changes at the 2016 candidate filing ($164M high), the TY2017 Original ($531M high), and the TY2024 Original ($686M high) correspond to PFD-level restatement events (increased Schedule A granularity; trust-level restructuring; or post-marriage accretion of spouse-held positions). The step-change pattern is independently relevant to Count 7 because it tracks the post-marriage accumulation of the spouse-held Trust, Partnership, and Foundation-adjacent holdings set out at Section 2 below.

2. Family-entity inventory

Holding-entity names recurring across respondent's household Schedule A inventory, rolled up across spelling variants captured by the extractor:

Entity	Type	First year	Last year	Years present	Owner codes	Aggregate low ($)	Aggregate high ($)
Ritu Ahuja 1994 Trust	Trust	2016	2024	2016–2024	DC, SP	88,702,044	242,280,001

The Ahuja Foundation / Ahuja Charitable Foundation	501(c)(3) private foundation	2020	2021	2020–2021	—	0	0

Entity	Type	First year	Last year	Years present	Owner codes	Aggregate low ($)	Aggregate high ($)
Rita / Ritu Ahuja Declaration of Trust	Trust	2017	2024	2017–2024	DC, SP	22,001,025	110,015,000
Ahuja Grandchildren’s Education Trust	Trust	2022	2024	2022–2024	DC	1,004,005	5,060,000
Khanna Family Bank Accounts	Deposits	2020	2024	2020–2024	SP	1,266,005	2,565,000
Ritu Ahuja Khanna / Ritu Ahuja Life Insurance policies	Life insurance	2020	2024	2020–2024	SP	330,008	1,200,000
Various deep-wrapper composite entries (Ritu Ahuja 1994 Trust: MURA Holdings: ...)	Nested trust wrapper	2016	2019	2016–2019	SP	1,200,000	2,200,000

The inventory picks up two classes of holding entity beyond the Ahuja Charitable Foundation developed at Exhibit H: (i) three spouse-settlor trusts (the 1994, 1995, and 1998 Ritu Ahuja Trusts; separately the Rita / Ritu Ahuja Declaration of Trust and its variants); and (ii) a set of generation-skipping and dependent-child-beneficiary trusts (the 2010 Grandchildren Trust with Monte and Usha Ahuja as settlors; the 2020 Trust FBO Khanna Children; the Ahuja Grandchildren’s Education Trust). MURA Holdings LLC appears as a family-holding wrapper used across multiple generations’ trust structures (including “Ritu Ahuja 1994 Trust: MURA Holdings: MAI Capital Management” and “Ritu Ahuja 1994 Trust: MURA Holdings: Cleveland Convelo Holdings LLC” nested-wrapper entries). M&R Trust Partnership is the Ahuja family limited-partnership vehicle.

Three implications follow for Counts 3 and 7:

- (A) The Ahuja Foundation is embedded in a broader family-entity stack. The Foundation (developed at Exhibit H) is one of at least fourteen distinct family-entity wrappers through which the household’s

Schedule A holdings flow. The spouse-as-trustee § 13104(d)(1)(A) disclosure-scope question at Count 7 does not turn on the Foundation alone; the same question is raised by the spouse’s trustee relationship to the Ritu Ahuja Trust vehicles and to M&R Trust Partnership.

- (B) Dependent-child and grandchildren-beneficiary trusts are active beneficial-ownership categories. The 2020 Trust FBO Khanna Children (aggregate high $201M across 2021–2024) and the 2010 Grandchildren Trust (aggregate high $118M across 2021–2024) sit on the dependent-child side of the Schedule A owner-code column. The Count 7 disclosure-integrity question on dependent-child beneficial ownership is anchored on these vehicles in addition to Schedule A trading activity.
- (C) Nested-wrapper entries obscure ultimate beneficial ownership. Schedule A rows that identify a position as held through “Ritu Ahuja 1994 Trust: MURA Holdings, LLC: Cleveland Convelo Holdings LLC” describe a three-layer holding structure in a single asset-name field. The line is filed as a single Schedule A row, not as a separate Schedule A entry for each nested entity, which defeats the asset-name-column index used by the House Clerk portal’s disclosure-search interface. The same pattern recurs across “Ritu Ahuja 1994 Trust: MURA Holdings: MAI Capital Management” and “Ritu Ahuja 1994 Trust: MURA Holdings: Huntington Bank Checking” entries.

3. Relationship to the balance of the complaint

- Count 3 (household financial-interest conflicts and regulatory-axis convergence) — this exhibit supplies the per-year asset-side denominator against which the Schedule B transaction intensity and the CMS rulemaking, FDA advisory-committee, and same-day 8-K intersections developed at Exhibits F, X, and M are measured. The TY2024 Original’s approximately $686 million aggregate high-band disclosed value is the denominator against which the household’s 37,238 transaction count (Count 1) is read.
- Count 7 (spouse-asset disclosure scope; Dover, Delaware rental asymmetry; margin-loan and written-options scaffold) — this exhibit widens the spouse-asset-disclosure scope question from the single Ahuja Foundation framing to the family-entity-stack framing developed at Section 2. The Count 7 relief sought in the complaint is not re-cited here.
